

WELCOME TO GJØVIK GÅRD

Bohemian and continental

Why was a town established in Gjøvik? Glass factory founder Caspar Kauffeldt, who built the large, white limed building at the center Gjøvik Gård in 1810, is partially responsible. Today you can come visit the Mjøen family's original and lavish home from the last half of the 19th century. Here the town's history is explored, from glass and industry to aquavit and potatoes, centered around the notable people who have lived in Gjøvik Gård. Gjøvik Gård is located in the beautiful park, right in the town center, nearby hotels and Skibladder's dock. The cozy Kafé Drengestua serves a selection of cakes and simple lunches on offer.

We have a big exhibition about old Gjøvikglass at Holmen Brænderi. Visit it together with Gjøvik gård.

We accept bookings from groups and bus tours all year round, and can adjust the tours to accommodate particular requests. The visit can also be combined with a visit to one of our other sites, such as the lake's own museum: Mjøsa's Ark in Kapp, or the district governor's farm Stenberg.
